<td>You don't have a choice about taking this class, but I'd recommend getting a tutor for Elie's portion early in the semester. Attend all office hours, and persistently ask questions. If you feel like something makes sense, ask questions until it doesn't make sense, and then figure out what the answer to those questions is.</td>

<td>We were the first G1 cohort to be required to take 2140 and my understanding is that it was very different from past iterations of 2140. The first half (taught by Max) was relatively straightforward, though at times difficult for those who had not taken any econometrics before. Max's lectures were very organized. He was clear about expectations and he is a fantastic teacher. The second half (taught by Elie) was less straightforward but more interesting. The lectures were very disorganized, but our fantastically organized and available TF, Linh, more than made up for Elie's disorganization.</td>

Linh clearly put a lot of effort into developing quality section materials, and she was very accessible outside of class to answer our questions. She cared deeply about us understanding the material, and this greatly influenced the amount of knowledge we were able to take away from the course.

Linh goes above and beyond to be helpful. Her final review session was very clarifying and useful. I think that the course was disorganized, and I lacked the requisite background, so that it was beyond the point of saving for me. I was never really going to understand what was going on at a deep level. But Linh made a wonderful effort, and I am grateful to her for that.

Linh was a FANTASTIC TF. I am so grateful for all of her guidance. This course could have been a trainwreck if we did not have Linh, who was organized, always available to talk in person or over email, and had a firm and deep grasp of the material.

Linh provided excellent additional materials in order to fill in and reinforce the technical details of lectures. I think most of the material I ended up absorbing was thanks to her help.

Linh was great in explaining concepts clearly and was really accessible outside of class and sections via email.

Fantastic-- a great complement to Elie’s teaching.

The sections were not that useful and Linh's explanations were far from being clear. That said, I think it was not her fault since from what I understood, she discovered what the sections content should be during the lecture that took place one hour before.

Linh was a fantastic TF. Her review section before the final exam was incredible - it helped me see connections I hadn't in class, and her feedback on assignments was fantastic. She always followed up on questions she hadn't been able to answer on the spot, either via email or in a later section. Often those kinds of questions go unanswered forever, but Linh's thorough approach really helped me tie up loose ends.
