Harvard Service Summary (1981-Present)

A. Teaching

My field is lyric poetry, British and American.

I have developed, and taught many times, a course called “Poems, Poets, Poetry” (an introduction to thinking about poetry, through an extensive and intensive study of English and American poems from Shakespeare to the present).

I regularly teach undergraduate courses (Modern American Poetry as well as lecture courses on individual poets, undergraduate seminars (Criticism of Poetry, Bishop, Berryman, Keats, Lowell, Shakespeare, Yeats, and Whitman), and graduate seminars (Describing the Lyric, Keats, Lowell, Shakespeare, Stevens, Whitman, and Yeats).

B. Departmental

Various prize committees, Morris Gray Lecture Committee Chair, Briggs-Copeland Lectureship Search Committee, junior and senior tutorials, and presentations to teaching colloquium on writing outside the university and to graduate students on writing a prospectus, etc.

I chaired the departmental Poetry Colloquium for doctoral candidates during 1985-86. I also acted as Placement Director from 1987-90, and was often a member of the Graduate Admissions Committee and the Appointments Committee (ongoing).

C. FAS Committees and Panels

American Civilization, History and Literature (1987-92), Hoopes Prize, Garrison and Hatch Prizes, Independent Poetry Prize, Radcliffe College Shelley Memorial Award, Charles Eliot Norton Lecture Committee, Phi Beta Kappa Literary Committee, Committee on the 350th Anniversary (one of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences conveners), Core Review Committee, etc. Associate Dean for five years.

D. Other

Erato Advisory Board

Harvard Library Bulletin Advisory Board

Society of Fellows, Senior Fellow for many years

Summer Speaker to Alumni Clubs Committee, Harvard Alumni Association, every few years

Various appearances as lecturer for Danforth Center for Teaching, Center for Lifelong Learning, Admissions (address to early action freshmen), Shop Club, The Signet, Alumni Clubs (Denver, Seattle, St. Louis, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Hanover, New York), docent on Canadian Alumni Cruise, literary tables (Dunster, Eliot, South, and Mather Houses), Institute for Literary Studies, Nieman Fellows, etc.

Various departmental committees, notably Morris Gray Lecture Committee, Undergraduate Studies Committee, Garrison-Hatch Prize, etc.

Various other committees on Visual and Environmental Studies, Extra Compensation, and Core Review.

I have intermittently served as judge for the Bunting Institute Fellowships and for the Harvard Mellon Fellowships.
